

Fellows Program on Peace, Governance, and Development in East Asia

EAI Fellows Program

The East Asia Institute (EAI) based in Seoul, Korea invites applications to its Fellows Program on Peace, Governance, and Development in East Asia. Established in 2005 with support from the Henry Luce Foundation, the Fellows Program targets United States-based East Asianists with cutting-edge expertise in political science, international relations, and sociology for an international exchange program with the goal of encouraging interdisciplinary research with a comparative perspective in the study of East Asia. The EAI Fellows present seminars and lectures, based on an unpublished article on current issues submitted solely for the purpose of the Fellows Program, at two or more Member Institutions in East Asia.

Program: The program is designed to give each of the Fellows the flexibility required to bring out the best of her expertise. The Fellow chooses her subject of article, seminar, and lecture within the broad themes of peace, governance, and development in East Asia in order to make the visit an integral part of her on-going research project. The Fellow also freely decides her time and two or more sites of visit among the Member Institutions, giving one seminar and one lecture at each of the sites chosen. The Member Institutions are The East Asia Institute in Seoul, Fudan University in Shanghai, Keio University in Tokyo, Peking University in Beijing, and Taiwan National University in Taipei.

Eligibility: The EAI Fellows Program is intended for tenured, tenure-track, and untenured East Asianist professors based in the United States conducting research in the fields of political science, international relations, and sociology.

Selection Process: The representatives of the Member Institutions plus an Advisor based in the United States select EAI Fellows through an annual competition.

Support: The program provides a total of US$14,900 for each of the Fellows for a three-week visit. The grant covers an honorarium for the article, seminar, and lecture as well as the cost of ground transportation, round-trip economy-class international air flight, hotel accommodation, meals, and a per diem for a total of three-week stay in East Asia [see comments on Application Forms].

Application: For further details and instructions on how to apply, please download a booklet titled "Fellows Program on Peace, Governance, and Development in East Asia" available online at http://eai.or.kr/eng/program/Fellows\_Application.pdf or e-mail fellowships@eai.or.kr for assistance. All application materials must be type-written and in English.

Deadline: Applications for fellowships must be received no later than May 31, 2005. The results of the competition will be announced on July 15, 2005, by both email and letter.
